Telehealth, Doctor Visits From Home

Virtual care that's gone mainstream

Skip the waiting room. See a real doctor from your couch.

WHAT IT IS

Telehealth is medical care delivered virtually, video call, phone, or chat, with a licensed provider. It's not a different kind of doctor or a downgraded experience. It's the same care, same prescriptions, same diagnoses, just remote. Most major health insurers cover telehealth visits, often at a lower copay than in-person visits. Standalone telehealth memberships are also available.

WHO IT'S FOR

- Working adults who can't take half a day off for a routine doctor visit.
- Rural residents far from specialists.
- Anyone with chronic conditions needing regular check-ins.
- Anyone who hates waiting rooms.
- Parents, easier to get a kid seen without a clinic trip.

WHAT IT HANDLES

- Routine illnesses (cold, flu, UTI, sinus, skin issues).
- Prescription refills and ongoing condition management.
- Mental health and therapy.
- Dermatology, allergy follow-ups.
- Triage, they tell you if you need to be seen in person.

THE 3 THINGS PEOPLE GET WRONG

- 1 "It's not real medicine."
Same licensed doctors. Same prescriptions. Same diagnoses. The only difference is they see you on a screen instead of in a room.
- 2 "It doesn't cover my situation."
It covers more than people expect, routine illness, prescription management, mental health, dermatology, chronic care. The list is long and growing.
- 3 "My insurance doesn't include telehealth."
Most major plans now include it. Often at a lower copay than in-person visits. Worth checking.

WHEN TO USE IT:

When something comes up and you don't want to drive to a clinic. Or for routine check-ins and prescription refills.
